DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. Figures 1-4 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). Corrected drawings in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.121(d)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- 2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
  - The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 3. Claim 3 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The phrase "a locking pin" in claim 3, line2 is vague and indefinite, because it is unclear is this locking pin the same pin that is claimed in claim 1. If it is, then claim 3 is indefinite because the same pin is claimed twice. If it is not, then claim 3 is indefinite because there are too many pins being claimed than what is being disclosed in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 5. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Livingston et al. (6,491,111).

Livingston discloses an apparatus (figure 1) comprising: a hammering holder 20 (figures 2 & 3), a threaded hole at one end of the hammering holder being provided to link to a pneumatic motor; a through hole on the other end of the hammering holder being provided to receive insertion of a transmission shaft 24 (figures 2 & 3 clearly show the threaded hole and the through hole at each end of the hammering holder 20); the hammering holder 20 accommodating two hammers 40 arranged laterally and secured respectively by two locking pins (figure 1 and column 3, lines 54-55); and each hammer being provided with a hetero-hole (figures 4 & 5 show two hammers 40 and their hetero-holes) to be inserted by a linking rib 32 (figures 6-9) from the transmission shaft 24 is characterized by that: a circular reinforcement rib 56 being provided at where those two linking ribs 32 consecutively provided at the terminal of the transmission shaft 24 being interrupted; and both linking ribs being connected by the circular reinforcement rib.

Livingston further discloses: a separation rib 62 (figure 4) is protruded from between two impetus walls 28, 42 on both sides in the hammering holder 20; the interior of the hammering holder being divided into a front chamber and a rear chamber by the separation rib; and a hammer being each accommodate by the front and the rear chambers. The examiner construes that the separation rib 62, when positions between two hammers 40 and disposes inside the hammering holder 20, is protruding from the wall 42 and 28 and divides the hammering holder into a front chamber and rear chamber (as recited in claim 2); and a protruded pin integrated with the hammering holder are provided to each hammer to secure and link to each hammer; the locking pin being provided in relation to an arc trough (figures 4 & 5 show an arc trough that is on the opposite side of the wider trough 44) on the hammer; and the protruded pin being provided in relation to a wider trough 44 on the hammer. The examiner construes that the pin from figure 1 is protruding and is an integral part of the whole unit inside the hammering holder 20 when it is in place to secure the hammers (as recited in claim 3).

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
